RELIEF FROM EXTREME WEATHER IS PROMISED AS MID-WEST SUFFERS

Charity Workers Are Taxed; Temperatures Will Rise

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—Relief from the lowest temperatures of the season was promised the upper central states today as the mercury dipped into the sub-zero zone in many areas.

While Chicago suffered with zero temperatures Bemidji, Minn., reported an unofficial reading of 20 degrees below zero and Devils Lake, N. D., reported an 18 degree below zero temperature.

A gradual rise later today was to bring relief to most sections, the weather bureau here reported.

Thousands of homeless and unemployed were driven to charity shelters by the frigid weather here and relief organizations were working at top speed to meet requests for food, fuel and clothing. One death from the cold occurred here when the body of an unidentified Negro woman was found in a vacant lot.

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 2.—Sweeping out of the Canadian northwest, a new cold wave held Ohio in its grasp today but its stay was to be of short duration, according to the U. S. Weather Bureau.

Following closely upon the frigid blasts at Thanksgiving time when the mercury shot downward to a minimum of 3 above here and below zero at many points in Ohio, the second cold wave dropped temperatures here to 11 above during the night.

A warm sun routed the cold wave and sent the mercury up during the forenoon. The forecast, however, was for increasing cloudiness tonight, although not so cold as last night.

Tomorrow the temperature will continue to rise, according to weather indications, but the higher temperatures will be accompanied by rain or snow.

Traffic moved at normal speed throughout most of the state despite the cold weather. Most roads were cleared of ice and snow.

RITES FOR "MOTHER" JONES WEDNESDAY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—Funeral services for "Mother" Mary Jones, 100-year-old, who devoted her life to the cause of organized labor, will be held tomorrow morning at St. Gabriel's Catholic Church here.

After the services the body will be taken to an undertaker's establishment where it will rest in state until 8 p.m. when it will be placed aboard a special railroad car and taken to Mount Olive, Ill., for burial.

Mother Jones died late Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Burgess in nearby Silver Springs, Md.

PROBE BAD APPLES

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 2.—City council today began probe concerning charges that unemployed men and women, who have been selling apples on the street here for the past two weeks, have been overcharged by wholesalers. It was also charged that blemished fruit has been sold to the hundreds of apple vendors.

DIES AFTER PARTY

Five young men of Gary, Ind., two of them former football stars, have been held by Gary police awaiting an investigation into the death of Miss Arlene Draves, 18, above, high school graduate, who died following a drinking party at the home of one of the men. According to Chief Deputy Coroner Chester A. Owen, the girl died of shock following an attack.

REPORT DARK HORSE GROOMED AS G. O. P. LEADER IN SENATE

Senator Marshall May Capture Choice Position

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 2.—Possibly that a "dark horse" was being groomed to enter the race for G. O. P. floor leader in the Ohio senate this winter was bandied about the capitol corridors here today as Republican senators gathered for their regular biennial caucus pow-wow in the senatorial chamber this afternoon.

The strength of Senators-elect Earl R. Lewis of St. Clairsville and Frank E. Whittemore of Akron as candidates for the prized position of floor leader, appeared to be about evenly matched. And therein lies the rub, according to political observers, who speculate that the third candidate, Senator L. L. Marshall of Cleveland, may come out on top.

Several hints were dropped this morning that Marshall's followers may throw their support to a "dark horse," if it is found that their candidate cannot win.

Ten votes are necessary for a selection, there being eighteen Republicans in the senate during the session which opens January 5. Governor Myers Y. Cooper and Commerce Director E. Schorr were understood to be favoring the selection of Senator Lewis.

Having no apparent opposition, it was regarded as almost a certainty that the Republican senators would retain Senate Clerk Thomas Bateman; Assistant Clerk Ed Gibson, and Sergeant-At-Arms Harry Knox of Marietta. A patronage committee and a committee on committees also were to be chosen.

Begg's announcement, it was rumored, will be made at the McKinley day banquet in Dayton late in January. He and U. S. Senator Dwight Morrow, of New Jersey, were scheduled to speak there.

Begg's announcement, it was reported, was to be made at the McKinley day banquet in Canton. He unsuccessfully opposed Myers Y. Cooper for the Republican gubernatorial nomination two years ago.

The commission also rejected, by a vote of 6 to 5, the British proposal for budgetary limitation of aviation materials. There were thirteen abstentions, including the United States.

During the day's session, United States Ambassador Hugh S. Gibson suggested that all discussion of chemical warfare be postponed and taken up later by the forthcoming general disarmament conference. In the meantime, he suggested, interested countries might draw up the necessary data.

Davis Scheme To Remain On Payroll Goes Wrong

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—James J. Davis, whose resignation as secretary of labor became effective today, was sworn in as United States senator from Pennsylvania shortly after noon today, despite an effort to prevent his being sworn because of the expenditures made in the Pennsylvania primary last May. The effort to keep Davis from being sworn was made by Senator Gerald P. Nye, (R), of North Dakota.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—Because of the desire of the Welsh-blooded James J. Davis to slide from one job to another without slipping off the federal payroll, William N. Doak is going to lose a little over $41 each and every day between now and the time the senate sees fit to confirm him as secretary of labor.

And Davis, despite his maneuverings, is out of luck. Insofar as a pay check is concerned, until that same senate deigns to open its portals and admit him as a newly-elected member from Pennsylvania.

All Washington was chuckling today over the comedy enacted at the department of labor in which President Hoover finally was forced to take a hand.

Davis had submitted his resignation as labor chief to be accepted at the pleasure of the President, but with the oral understanding that he would be sworn in as a recess appointment.

Secretary to the President Geo. Akerson turned red, laughed, and disappeared into the "chief's" office. In ten minutes he returned and said:

"At the request of Mr. Davis, the president is accepting his resignation, effective tomorrow (Tuesday)."

But alas, it developed that in the meantime the senate had convened and that Doak could not take the oath until he had been confirmed.

Beginning today, Assistant Secretary Robe Carl White becomes acting secretary ipso facto.

And that $15,000 cabinet job vanishes with "no pay" all around.

ELEVEN PUPILS HURT AS BLAST ROCKS SCHOOL; PROBE STARTED

AKRON, O., Dec. 2.—An investigation by Deputy State Fire marshals was launched today to determine the origin of a blast which rocked the large brick building of the Bath Centralized School, near here, and resulted in the injury of eleven pupils, five of whom were reported in a serious condition.

The most seriously injured of the group were five boys, members of the school's basketball team, who were in the gymnasium when the explosion took place. They are Charles Coddington, 17, Copley; Howard McKisson, 15, Everett; Jack McCausland, 15, Bath; William Hauser, 16, Everett, and Kenneth Powers, 16, Fairlawn.

All five were removed to hospitals in Akron. Principal injuries were burns on their faces, heads and hands. Even though their conditions is considered serious, it is believed that all five will recover.

Six other students, who were in the building at the time of the blast, suffered cuts and burns. They were treated at the offices of physicians and removed to their homes.

The explosion occurred after school had been dismissed for the day. It was believed that the blast was caused by artificial cooking gas which escaped from a tank in the domestic science department, located near the gymnasium.

CLARENCE BROWN, BEGG TO ANNOUNCE

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 2.—Reports that Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown and former Congressman James T. Begg, of Sandusky, will soon formally announce their candidacies for the Republican nomination for governor, subject to the August, 1932, primaries, were current here today.

In a recommendation to Governor in Noted Case

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 2.—Hope of Warren K. Billings that he might be pardoned was blasted today when the state supreme court, by a vote of 6 to 1, denied a pardon recommendation.

Billings is serving a life term in Folsom prison, having been convicted of murder in connection with the 1916 Preparedness Day bomb outrage in San Francisco.

The decision of the court definitely stops the governor from pardoning Billings or commuting his sentence. Under the state constitution a second offender cannot be granted executive clemency without a recommendation from the justice of the supreme court. Billings is a second offender.

Thomas Mooney, serving a life term in San Quentin Prison on a similar conviction, has a different legal status. He had no previous convictions against him.

Governor C. C. Young, according to word received here, asserted he would study the court's decision carefully and submit it to his own advisory pardon board.

WHITE INAUGURAL WILL LACK CEREMONY

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 2.—With Governor-elect George White, of Marietta, here to confer with the Democratic state executive committee chairman, Henry G. Brunner, a report went the rounds at the statehouse today that White's inauguration will be entirely lacking in ostentation and display.

White has had but little time to give to inaugural plans to date, but it was known his personal preference was for a quiet and simple inauguration.

Friends of White said he might insist that the customary inaugural parade be dispensed with and restrict the official inaugural program to the administration of the oath of office and delivery of the

AUSTRALIAN FLYER PLANS TO CONTINUE INTERRUPTED TRIP

Will Re-Fuel Plane On Andros Island To Resume Flight

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 2.—A plane piloted by Captain Wm. N. Lancaster took off from the Pan-American airport today for Nassau to bring Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, noted Australian aviator, to Miami.

It was expected that the plane would pick up Mrs. Keith-Miller and return to Miami sometime during the afternoon.

NAASAU, Bahamas, Dec. 2.—Given up as lost after having been missing since her take-off from Havana for Miami four days ago and as suddenly found safe in the Bahamas, Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, Australian aviatrix, was here today determined to complete a flight cut short by a gale and a forced landing on the island of Andros.

She ordered a plane from Miami with the intention of flying to Andros Island with a supply of fuel for her monoplane, which she landed there without damage.

After refilling the gas tank of the monoplane, Mrs. Keith-Miller planned to finish her interrupted trip to Miami.

Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller was forced down approximately 300 miles northeast of Havana, 150 miles east-southeast of Miami, on Andros Island. The strip of land is the largest in the Bahamas group, consisting in the main of lagoons and marshes. It is sparsely inhabited.

BURBANK, Calif., Dec. 2.—Among those who rejoiced today over the assurance that Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, Australian flier, had been found alive in the Bahamas was Miss Ruth Nichols, Rye, N. Y., aviatrix who holds the new trans-continental speed record for women.

It is the best of news; I am glad," said Miss Nichols when told that her friend had made a safe landing at Andros Island, Bahamas.

Miss Nichols flew here yesterday from Kingman, Ariz., setting a new east-west coast to coast flight record for women of sixteen hours and fifty-nine minutes and thirty seconds, bettering Mrs. Keith-Miller's record by eight hours and forty-four minutes.

DAUGHERTY IS GIVEN EXTENTION OF TIME; DECEMBER 22 FIXED

Delay Arraignment Because Of Illness Of Attorney

WASHINGTON, C. H. O., Dec. 2—Mal S. Daugherty, former president of the now defunct Ohio State Bank here, will be arraigned on fourteen grand jury indictments, charging him with misappropriation of the bank's funds, December 22.

Another extension of time was granted the former bank official yesterday by Judge H. M. Rankin, who also rejected Daugherty's plea for a reduction of the $40,000 bond for his appearance in court.

Daugherty was accompanied in court by his brother, Harry M. Daugherty, former United States attorney general.

The date for arraignment was continued because of the illness of J. P. Clyburn, one of Daugherty's attorneys.

The fourteen new indictments were returned by the Fayette County grand jury in place of fourteen others to which Daugherty had filed pleas of abatement. This was done, it was explained, to prevent the necessity of holding separate trials on each of the abated pleas.

The arraignment of Virgil Vincent, a grain dealer, was also continued until December 22. Vincent is under an indictment charging perjury in connection with testimony given to the grand jury during its probe of the Ohio State Bank's affairs. He was released under $1,000 bond.

Rep. McClinic (D) of Oklahoma proposed suspension of immigration for ten years, and a $75,000,000 bill for drought relief sufferers.

Mrs. Edith Nourse Rogers (R) of Massachusetts, was introduced in court today authorizing $52,000,000 for additional veterans' hospitals.

FOUR DEER HUNTERS PERISH IN FLAMES

CONGRESS MESSAGE REGARDS BUSINESS SITUATION MAINLY Urges Cooperation; Hoover Ignores Prohibition

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—President Hoover reported to congress today in his annual message that the country is making headway in its efforts to combat the economic depression and that barring unforeseen set-backs "we will overcome world influences and will lead the march of prosperity as we have always done hitherto."

The message was mainly devoted to the business situation and what can be done to improve it. More will be accomplished by co-operative action in communities themselves, he said, than by any legislative action or executive pronouncement.

Of prohibition and its enforcement President Hoover said not a word. Presumably he left out all reference to prohibition because he is waiting for the report of the Wickersham Commission, although he did not say so. In any event, he ignored the subject completely. It marked the first time in ten years that a Presidential message has not had a great deal to say about it.

The message as a whole sedulously avoided the submission of any controversial matters. Mr. Hoover wants this congress to enact the necessary appropriation bills and adjourn in three months leaving nothing hanging in mid-air but the business of the session.

The prohibition bills include demands for referendum on the 18th amendment, urged by Reps. McLeod (R) of Michigan and Andrew (R) of Massachusetts, wets. McLeod's bill provides for sale of light intoxicants in the home and general constitutional convention.

Two members, Reps. Irwin (R) of Illinois and Swick (R) of Pennsylvania, proposed pensions of $30 a month for widows of World War veterans and

LEAGUE OF NATIONS REJECTS PROPOSAL

GENEVA, Dec. 2.—By a vote of 10 to 2, the preparatory disarmament commission of the League of Nations today rejected a proposal made by Germany that all nations reduce their armaments to the same level imposed upon Germany by the treaty of Versailles.

The proposal was made by Count Von Bernstorff, chief German delegate.

The commission also rejected, by a vote of 6 to 5, the British proposal for budgetary limitation of aviation materials. There were thirteen abstentions, including the United States.

During the day's session, United States Ambassador Hugh S. THANKSGIVING DAY RED CROSS CHARITY WORK IS REVEALED

TRIAL IS NOVELTY

LEADERS TRAINING MEETING ON FRIDAY

The third leaders training meeting for Home Care of the Sick will be held on Friday, December 5 at the Court House Assembly Room with Miss Wanda Przylaska, health specialist from Ohio State University in charge.

Home made medicine chests and means of caring for patients will be discussed at this meeting.

This meeting is primarily for township leaders but visitors are welcome if they care to attend. There has been a very good attendance at the first two meetings of this project. The last report, according to Ruth Radford, Home Demonstration Agent shows that up to date thirty-three township leaders have been trained, who in turn have trained fifty-six local leaders, reaching a total of 635 Greene County women. Miss Radford says that the leaders in Greene County are to be complimented for their splendid co-operation in this and other projects in this county.

THANKSGIVING DAY RED CROSS CHARITY WORK IS REVEALED

Thanksgiving activities of Greene County Chapter, American Red Cross, were revealed Monday in a report submitted by Miss Emma F. Lyon, executive secretary. Organizations and individuals in Xenia and Greene County cooperated with the local chapter in trying to give the needy people of the community a happy Thanksgiving.

Among those who cooperated with the organization were: the Kiwanis Club, which donated $25 to purchase meat for seventeen baskets packed by Central High School P.T. A.; Mrs. Charles Adair, Mrs. Asa Price and Prof. F. R. Woodruff of Central High P.T. A.; Troop No. 1, Girl Scouts of America, who donated a basket to a needy family; St. Agnes Guild of Christ Episcopal Church, donation of $5, used to purchase beef roasts for baskets packed by Orient Hill P.T. A.

Lists of needy families to whom baskets were to be sent were submitted to the Red Cross by McKinley and Spring Hill Schools in order to avoid duplication. Meat, costing $450, was purchased by the Red Cross for baskets. With the assistance of Mrs. Maurice J. Bebb, the Red Cross packed eleven baskets of food, vegetables and meat donated by interested persons.

The following Sunday School and church organizations cooperated with the Red Cross: the Young Women's Home Missionary Society of the First U. P. Church donated fruits and vegetables that went into the eleven special baskets; food was donated by several members of the W. C. T. U.; food was donated by the Service Class of the Second U. P. Church; the Galloway Bible Class of the First U. P. Church donated a basket of food; the Berean Class and the McGervey Bible Class donated one and two baskets respectively; the Women's Sunday School Class of the First M. E. Church provided five families; the Berean Bible Class of the First Reformed Church contributed baskets for two families and Mrs. Adda Bailey donated a basket of food.

The following individuals cooperated with the office in giving a Thanksgiving basket to families: Mr. and Mrs. George C. Stokes, A. D. Chamberlin, "a bunch of friends," Mrs. L. D. Ball, Miss Margaret Moorehead, "a friend" (supplied two families), Mrs. E. D. Martin and Mrs. Chatfield.

LEADERS TRAINING MEETING ON FRIDAY

The third leaders training meeting for Home Care of the Sick will be held on Friday, December 5 at the Court House Assembly Room with Miss Wanda Przyluska, health specialist from Ohio State University in charge.

Home made medicine chests and means of caring for patients will be discussed at this meeting.

This meeting is primarily for township leaders but visitors are welcome if they care to attend. There has been a very good attendance at the first two meetings of this project. The last report, according to Ruth Radford, Home Demonstration Agent shows that up to date thirty-three township leaders have been trained, who in turn have trained fifty-six local leaders, reaching a total of 635 Greene County women. Miss Radford says that the leaders in Greene County are to be complimented for their splendid co-operation in this and other projects in this county.

ENTERTAIN GRidders

Following an annual custom at the close of every grid season, senior girls of Xenia Central High School will be hostesses to members of the 1930 Buccaneer football squad at an "appreciation" banquet to be served at 6 o'clock Thursday night in the school cafeteria. No set program is being planned but several impromptu talks are expected to be given following the dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hudson, Kutztown Ave., Dayton, formerly of this city, are moving from Dayton to Racine, Wis., to make their home. Mr. Hudson, who has accepted a position as trust officer in the First National Bank at Racine, left Sunday evening for that place and Mrs. Hudson will join him there in two weeks. Mr. Hudson formerly was employed as trust officer for the Dayton Savings and Trust Co.

Mrs. W. H. Tilford, N. Detroit St., read a paper on "Negro Spirituals" and sang a group of spirituals at a meeting of the Madisonville Monday Club in Madisonville Monday afternoon. She remained there Monday evening and attended an open meeting of the Madisonville Music Club held at the Madisonville M. E. Church. She was the guest of Mrs. O. B. Kiser, Indian Hill, composer of Negro spirituals.

Mr. and Mrs. Rex Wells and four children, Toledo; Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Baker and Mrs. Anna Harsha, Washington C. H., were guests over the week end of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Frazer and family, W. Church St.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Currie, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Charters, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Whitmer and Miss Hatlie Whitmer, this city, spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Keyes, Dayton, formerly of this city. The gathering was arranged as a farewell party for Mr. and Mrs. George Hudson, Dayton, formerly of this city, who are moving soon to Racine, Wis.

Funeral services for Mrs. Iris Curry, who died suddenly Friday evening, were held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at her home on E. Xenia Ave., Jamestown.

Mrs. Joshua Gultice, Hoop Road, has received word of the illness of her sister, Miss Dorothy Rader, of Dayton. She is suffering from sciatica rheumatism.

The Misses Georgianna and Leora Williamson, Hillsboro, O., spent Thanksgiving Day and the week end as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Mason Anderson and family, near Jamestown.

All members of the degree staff of Obedient Council, No. 160, Daughters of America, are asked to meet Tuesday evening to make plans for inspection. There will also be election of officers at the meeting.

AUTO HITS ENGINE; SECOND ALMOST HIT ON S. DETROIT ST.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad crossing on S. Detroit St., unprotected by a watchman after 6 p.m. was the scene of auto mishaps Monday night in which occupants of two machines were shaken up but escaped injury.

Miss Margaret E. Emery, 125 High St., driving north in a sedan also occupied by her father, I. F. Emery, Pennsylvania Railroad ticket agent here, swerved the car to the right barely in time to avoid colliding with the locomotive of a slow-moving westbound freight at 6:30 o'clock. The machine ran parallel with the train and crashed into a pole on the east side of the street, damaging the front end of the car.

A sedan driven by Mrs. J. R. Lunsford, wife of the pastor of the First Baptist Church, traveling north, crashed into the drive wheel of an eastbound locomotive at 9:30 p.m. The engine, not attached to any cars, was also traveling slowly. A high wall on the west side of the street obscured Mrs. Lunsford's view. The right tender of the sedan was dented. Several children also occupying the car were reported to have jumped out before the machine reached the crossing.

TRIAL OF KENTON SLAYER NEAR END

KENTON, O., Dec. 2.—Rebuttal testimony in the case of James Willis, 21-year-old Kenton youth charged with the murder of George L. Ansley, 49, was begun today by the state, indicating that the case might be given to the jury before nightfall.

The defense rested its case at the completion of yesterday's session. Two aliens, Dr. H. D. McIntyre and Dr. Thomas A. Ratcliffe, both of Cincinnati, were the last witnesses. Both of the neurology experts said they believed Willis was insane.

The youth is charged with the fatal shooting of Ansley the morning of last October 26 when he entered the slain man's home in search of a daughter, Lucille, whose attentions he sought.

SCOUT COMMITTEE SELECTS OFFICERS AT MEETING MONDAY

Election of four officers was one of the important matters of business transacted by the Xenia District Committee, Boy Scouts of America, when more than twenty members met at Central High School Monday night.

Dr. Austin M. Patterson was re-elected president of the organization. Fred Lang and D. W. Cherry will continue to serve as vice-president and treasurer, respectively, through re-election.

The Rev. Adrian G. Lebold, pastor of the First Lutheran Church, was elected Greene County district Scout commissioner, succeeding S. N. McClellan, who will receive a distinctive promotion in the Tecumseh Council in January.

Plans for a Greene County Board of Review and Court of Honor were outlined and the time and place decided upon. The Rev. H. B. McElree will head both projects, which will be held at Central High School December 15. The Board of Review will begin at 6:30 p.m. and will be followed by the Court of Honor at 8 o'clock. John Vanderpool, C. F. Bay and Dr. W. A. Galloway compose the committee.

The Dayton couple was returning home after spending the Thanksgiving holidays in Circleville. Mr. Wilhelm, who was driving, attempted to start the motor after the car stalled but failed and he and his wife jumped out to safety.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilhelm remained at G. N. Pillsbury's sandwich shop at Trebein until Mrs. Wilhelm's brother arrived from Dayton and drove them home.

The Scout survey committee headed by S. N. McClellan reported 187 registered Scouts in Greene County. Troop 40, Xenia; Troop 62 at the O. S. and S. O. Home; Troop 54 at Osborn-Fairfield, and Troop 41, Xenia, have full quota registrations now.

Actual recommended troop quotas were adopted as follows: Troop 43—sixteen Scouts; Troop 45—twenty Scouts; Troop 56, Yellow Springs—twenty-four Scouts; and Troop 68, Cedarville—twenty-eight Scouts. These are the achievement quotas to be obtained by December 31.

Plans for a Scouts' round table discussion following regular business meetings were also made.

FAMILY FLEES AUTO JUST BEFORE TRAIN WRECKS IT MONDAY

Election of four officers was one of the important matters of business transacted by the Xenia District Committee, Boy Scouts of America, when more than twenty members met at Central High School Monday night.

Dr. Austin M. Patterson was re-elected president of the organization. Fred Lang and D. W. Cherry will continue to serve as vice-president and treasurer, respectively, through re-election.

The Rev. Adrian G. Lebold, pastor of the First Lutheran Church, was elected Greene County district Scout commissioner, succeeding S. N. McClellan, who will receive a distinctive promotion in the Teumseh Council in January.

Plans for a Greene County Board of Review and Court of Honor were outlined and the time and place decided upon. The Rev. H. B. McElree will head both projects, which will be held at Central High School December 15. The Board of Review will begin at 6:30 p.m. and will be followed by the

ENTERTAIN GRIDDERS

Following an annual custom at the close of every grid season, senior girls of Xenia Central High School will be hostesses to members of the 1930 Buccaneer football squad at an "appreciation" banquet to be served at 6 o'clock Thursday night in the school cafeteria. No set program is being planned but several impromptu talks are expected to be given following the dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hudson, Kenwood Ave., Dayton, formerly of this city, are moving from Dayton to Racine, Wis., to make their home. Mr. Hudson, who has accepted a position as trust officer in the First National Bank at Racine, left Sunday evening for that place and Mrs. Hudson will join him there in two weeks. Mr. Hudson formerly was employed as trust officer for the Dayton Savings and Trust Co.

Mrs. W. H. Tilford, N. Detroit St., read a paper on "Negro Spirituals" and sang a group of spirituals at a meeting of the Madisonville Monday Club in Madisonville Monday afternoon. She remained there Monday evening and attended an open meeting of the Madisonville Music Club held at the Madisonville M. E. Church. She was the guest of Mrs. O. B. Kiser, Indian Hill, composer of Negro spirituals.

Mr. and Mrs. Rex Wells and four children, Toledo; Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Baker and Mrs. Anna Harsha, Washington C. H., were guests over the week end of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Frazer and family, W. Church St.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Currie, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Charters, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Whitmer and Misses Whitmer, this city, spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Keyes, Dayton, formerly of this city. The gathering was arranged as a farewell party for Mr. and Mrs. George Hudson, Dayton, formerly of this city, who are moving soon to Racine, Wis.

Funeral services for Mrs. Ira Curry, who died suddenly Friday evening, were held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at her home on E. Xenia Ave., Jamestown.

Mrs. Joshua Gultice, Hoop Road, has received word of the illness of her sister, Miss Dorothy Rader, of Dayton. She is suffering from sciatica rheumatism.

The Misses Georgiana and Leora Williamson, Hillsboro, O., spent Thanksgiving Day and the week end as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Mason Anderson and family, near Jamestown.

All members of the degree staff of Obedient Council, No. 160, Daughters of America, are asked to meet Tuesday evening to make plans for inspection. There will also be election of officers at the meeting.

AUTO HITS ENGINE;
SECOND ALMOST HIT
ON S. DETROIT ST.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad crossing on S. Detroit St., unpreceded by a watchman after 6 p.m., was the scene of auto mishaps Monday night in which occupants of two machines were shaken up but escaped injury.

Miss Margaret E. Emery, 125 High St., driving north in a sedan also occupied by her father, L. F. Emery, Pennsylvania Railroad ticket agent here, swerved the car to the right barely in time to avoid colliding with the locomotive of a slow-moving westbound freight at 6:30 o'clock. The machine ran parallel with the train and crashed into a pole on the east side of the street, damaging the front end of the car.

A sedan driven by Mrs. J. R. Lunsford, wife of the pastor of the First Baptist Church, traveling north, crashed into the drive wheel of an eastbound locomotive at 9:30 p.m. The engine, not attached to any cars, was also traveling slowly. A high wall on the west side of the street obscured Mrs. Lunsford's view. The right tender of the sedan was dented. Several children also occupying the car were reported to have jumped out before the machine reached the crossing.

TRIAL OF KENTON SLAYER NEAR END

KENTON, O., Dec. 2.—Rebuttal testimony in the case of James Willis, 21-year-old Kenton youth charged with the murder of George L. Ansley, 49, was begun today by the state, indicating that the case might be given to the jury before nightfall.

The defense rested its case at the completion of yesterday's session. Two alienists, Dr. H. D. McIntyre and Dr. Thomas A. Ratcliffe, both of Cincinnati, were the last witnesses. Both of the neurology experts said they believed Willis was insane.

The youth is charged with the fatal shooting of Ansley the morning of last October 26 when he entered the slain man's home in search of a daughter, Lucille, whose attentions he sought.

J. Herbert Case, chairman of the board of the Federal Reserve bank of New York, has been selected as board chairman of a new billion-dollar bank merger in New York which includes the Bank of United States, Manufacturers Trust company, Public National Bank and Trust company and the International Trust company. The new bank will be the fourth largest in the United States.

The greater the output, the lower the cost of production—that's why Peters "Diamond Brand" shoes are always high in quality and low in price. Each pair is made on a solid leather basis by the International Shoe Co. which owns and operates—44 Specialty Shoe Factories, each making just one particular type and grade of shoe, together producing 50,000,000 pairs a year.
14 Tanneries, each specializing in one particular type of leather, producing 25,000 hides and skins a day.
1 Rubber Heel and Sole Plant, producing 125,000 pairs of heels and 30,000 pairs of soles a day.
1 Cotton Mill, to produce 7,000,000 yards of lining fabric a year.
59 Auxiliary Plants, producing welting, dyes, chemicals, shoe boxes, shipping cartons, trunks, gloves, etc., to the value of more than $30,000,000 a year if purchased from outside sources.

Why take chances on inferior quality when you can buy genuine Ball Band Rubbers or Peters' Diamond Brand Shoes at Kennedy's for less money?

Each pair of "Diamond Brands" is honestly made on a solid leather basis. The counters and insoles--the hidden, but vital parts of the shoes--are all leather, while the heels and outsoles are made of leather or rubber to meet the demands of the wearer.

This season we have selected for your approval what we believe is the smartest and best assortment of shoe styles we have ever had the pleasure of showing you. Our stocks are now complete and we can fit you correctly in the style you choose.

Look over the many patterns we show for every member of the family and notice especially the very attractive prices at which we offer these high quality, solid leather shoes.

BILL THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Rejoice in the Lord always; and again I say, Rejoice. Let your moderation be known unto all men. The Lord is at hand. Be careful for nothing; but in every thing by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known unto God—Philippians, iv, 4-6.

WAR ON GANGSTERS

The district attorney of New York county invited victims of the rackets that are bleeding legitimate business in New York city to the tune of $100,000,000 a year to write him their experiences with the 1000 tribute-taking gangsters that are alleged to infest the metropolis. This procedure was adopted in the hope of obtaining information which the victims were afraid to go into court and divulge. Complaints from 1000 victims of only fifteen of New York's rackets were sufficient to "name" the county prosecutor. "They have their hands in everything," said he, "from the cradle to the grave."

That is literally true, according to the information Crain has collected. The connection of racketeers with the city's milk supply has been under investigation ever since last summer's drought scare; while in parts of the city undertakers or lessors of funeral cars must pay the gangsters for immunity from sabotage. A levy of three cents is said to be made by racketeers on every hundredweight of freight delivered in the largest city in the country, which has been estimated to net them about $5,000,000 a year. With a single exception, all the docks and railway stations in New York are alleged to be dominated by gangs, whose agents meticulously check all loadings and unloadings. A million dollars a year is the estimated amount the racketeers take out of independent laundries and cleaning and dyeing establishments. The establishments that refuse to pay the gangsters have to pay their patrons for garments ruined by the gang with acid or knife. A dollar a night is what members of theatre, cabaret and movie house orchestras are taxed to save their instruments from destruction or themselves from being black-jacked. A night patrol is maintained by racketeers in sections of the city for the "protection" of shops and stores which pay for the service—and for robbing those that don't.

Such are a few of the countless rackets in New York that have thrived by intimidating their victims and buying up dishonest pounce-men. A committee of public safety has now been organized by the district attorney to take a hand in the game.

BEING NICE

A special correspondent writing from the French capital reports that articles about "gangster America" have practically vanished from the newspapers of that city, and that other stories abusing the United States are being soft pedaled. In contrast, French writers who have sojourned in this country of late—and quite a lot of them have been over here doing propagandist work of a more or less subtle nature—are continuing to emphasize our good points and recount how nice we are.

One of these personages tells his fellow countrymen that "among the traits I observed in Americans that struck me most favorably, was their generosity," and another, Francois de Croisset, a dramatist, declares that "when Americans learn the art of doing nothing, they will become a perfect people."

This is all very nice, and a self flattering interpretation of the change of tone of the French press would be an assumption that as Galli journalists have come to know us better, they have learned to understand and appreciate us more. But it will be dangerous and sentitive, and rather juvenile to succumb to any such imagining as that.

The French are an extremely practical people underneath their carefully cultivated and regulated emotionalism, and if for the moment their spokesmen are flattering instead of insulting us, if they have quit calling us "Shylocks," and are discoursing about our generosity, they are doing so with a purpose. What that purpose may be is naturally more or less a matter for speculation at present. But perhaps it is a good general guess that the French journalists who have traveled here have learned that the hard names they and their countrymen have been hurling at us have accomplished nothing for them, but on the contrary have created irritation, dislike and suspicion which may be bad for France later. There seems to be a sudden recollection in Paris, of the old saying that you can catch more flies with molasses than with vinegar.

LITTLE GIRL

She's only 6, but she wonders about life quite a bit. She wonders how water can go UP in pipes, she wonders what makes automobiles go... Once she asked her father whether the days would ever come to end—whether there would ever be a time when there wouldn't be any days at all... but just nothing at all... Her father couldn't answer the question. He said, "Perhaps." And she seemed to be satisfied with his ignorance.

She's fond of dolls, but she likes dogs better. She likes to drive nails into boards and to saw them across. She thinks boys have more fun than girls... Nobody ever told her that. It's her own idea... She can read, but she'd rather pile up blocks... She has fun.

Sometimes she sits quietly by herself and then asks an odd question... You ask her why she asked THAT particular question and she replies: "Oh I was just thinking, I guess..." She doesn't KNOW why she asks them.

She can't stand physical pain very well. She gets very white if she has a bad fall and wants to go to bed and have bread and milk. But she doesn't like puppies and kittens to be hurt, either... She listened one day to the story of an Irish wolfhound that killed a cat and then she said: "I don't want to hear about that—because I like kittens." She can turn a handspring quite well, and is very proud of it. She'll show you if you ask her... But she can't turn a cartwheel, and she's tried and tried and tried.

That little girl can touch the tip of her nose with her tongue, but she's sort of ashamed of it. On the other hand she can wiggle her ears and will do that for anybody... Sometimes she whines when things go wrong and her parents wish she wouldn't. They tell her they don't want a whiny tattletale in the house... She believes there's a Santa Claus and she is sure an Easter Bunny leaves candy eggs in the front yard once a year... She thinks she knows how to dance the sailors' horn-pipe and she dances by herself if she's alone in a room and the radio's turned on; but if you come in, she stops... She doesn't always say thank you when people give her threes, but after they've gone she says she "just loves" them.

She's just a regular little girl getting a day older every day... Sometimes she seems older than her years and sometimes she seems a wee baby. What on earth will become of her? What will she be like when she grows up?... But doesn't somebody wonder that way about nearly every little girl that's just six years old?

THE QUESTION BOX

—Central Press Wash. Bureau

Answers to questions on information and fact can be obtained by writing to Central Press Bureau, 1435 East Twelfth street, Cleveland, O., and enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. No answers will be given to marital, medical or legal questions, nor will the estimated value of old coins be given.

What causes icebergs? Are they more numerous in the south or north polar regions?

Icebergs are sections of glaciers which have become detached from the main body of glacial ice after its front, or snout, has reached a sea or lake. In the north polar region Greenland is pre-eminent for the number and the size of the bergs which drift into Atlantic waters. The Greenland bergs are occasionally of great size. Large icebergs tower from 100 to 250 feet above the ocean, which makes their entire height from 700 feet to about 1,600 feet, as about one-seventh is above water. It is in the south polar regions, however, that icebergs are found in the greatest numbers, and of the maximum size, Antarctica, with its more than 10,000 miles of icy coasts, does not, as far as is known, present 100 consecutive miles of shore free from discharging glaciers. The Antarctic icebergs are almost always tabular, flat-topped, with perpendicular sides, which often rise 200 feet or more above the water. Their size is more astounding than their height. One berg was reported to be more than 30 miles in length and of unknown breadth. Two different ships reported another berg, which was more than 40 miles in length, and which must have had more than 1,000 miles of surface area. Most of these bergs drift north and melt between latitude 40 and 50 degrees south.

Talkies

What was the first successful talking picture and who was the star?

"The Jazz Singer," starring Al Jolson, is said to have been the first successful talking picture. It was produced in 1927.

Football

Did the football team of the University of Wisconsin defeat Notre Dame at any time within the last three years?

The University of Wisconsin defeated Notre Dame by a score of 22-0 in 1928.

Warmth in Color

Which color is warmer in winter, white or black?

Because black absorbs and retains heat more readily than white, it is the warmer of the two colors. Squares of white and black cloth placed upon the snow on a sunny winter day will prove the point, the snow beneath the black melting much more rapidly.

Envys

Who are the American ambassadors to the following countries and what are their addresses: France, Walter E. Edge; Austria, Russia, England, Germany, Spain, France, Austria and Rumania?

There is no U. S. ambassador to Russia inasmuch as the United States refuses to recognize the present Soviet regime. The U. S. ambassador to England, Charles G. Dawes; Germany, Frederick M. Sackett; Spain, Irwin B. Laughlin; Albert H. Washburn; Rumania, Charles S. Wilson. The proper address of any one of these ambassadors is in care of the American embassies in the capital cities of the various countries.

Impeachment

Was a president of the United States ever impeached? If so, for what reason?

Andrew Johnson, seventeenth president of the United States, was impeached by the house of representatives for having removed without the consent of the Senate E. M. Stanton, secretary of war, and on other charges including corrupt use of the veto power, interference at elections and high crimes and misdemeanors. He was tried by the U. S. Senate, March 30, May 26, 1868, which voted 35 for conviction, 19 for acquittal; but as two-thirds vote was necessary for conviction, the verdict was acquittal.

Sweet Cider Cake

Anyway, it was too clever a scrap for our advocates of tariff reduction not to borrow—meantime wishing mightily that they themselves had used it, enabling them to use it without quotation marks.

Of course it may not be true. Still, it represents the candid opinion of a couple of Englishmen, with considerable claims to be rated as experts in the science of political economy, in conversation with other Englishmen—and pointing out our kind of economics to them as a horrible example, to be steered as clear of as possible.

Tomato Soup

England, as we know, is suffering from decided worse times and more unemployment than have been afflicting the United States lately. A formidable group of her public men have been insisting that her only hope of salvation lies in the abandonment of her free trade policy of nearly a century and the adoption of tariff protection in one form or another.

The Liberals, however, are free trade standpatters.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Rejoice in the Lord always; and again I say, Rejoice. Let your moderation be known unto all men. The Lord is at hand. Be careful for nothing; but in every thing by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known unto God.—Philippians, iv, 4-6.

WAR ON GANGSTERS

The district attorney of New York county invited victims of the rackets that are bleeding legitimate business in New York city to the tune of $100,000,000 a year to write him their experiences with the 10,000 tribute-taking gangsters that are alleged to infest the metropolis. This procedure was adopted in the hope of obtaining information which the victims were afraid to go into court and divulge. Complaints from City victims of only fifteen of New York's rackets were sufficient to "convince" the county prosecutor. "They have their hands in everything," said he, "from the cradle to the grave."

That is literally true, according to the information Crain has collected. The connection of racketeers with the city's milk supply has been under investigation ever since last summer's drought scare; while in parts of the city undertakers or lessors of funeral cars must pay the gangsters for immunity from sabotage. A levy of three cents is said to be made by racketeers on every hundredweight of freight delivered in the largest city in the country, which has been estimated to net them about $5,000,000 a year. With a single exception, all the docks and railway stations in New York are alleged to be dominated by gangs, whose agents meticulously check all loadings and unloadings. A million dollars a year is the estimated amount the racketeers take out of independent laundries and cleaning and dyeing establishments. The establishments that refuse to pay the gangsters have to pay their patrons for garments ruined by the gang with acid or knife. A dollar a night is what members of theatre, cabaret and movie house orchestras are taxed to save their instruments from destruction or themselves from being black-jacked. A night patrol is maintained by racketeers in sections of the city for the "protection" of shops and stores which pay for the service—and for robbing those that don't.

Such are a few of the countless rackets in New York that have thrived by intimidating their victims and buying up dishonest pounce-men. A committee of public safety has now been organized by the district attorney to take a hand in the game.

BEING NICE

A special correspondent writing from the French capital reports that articles about "gangster America" have practically vanished from the newspapers of that city, and that other stories abusing the United States are being soft pedaled. In contrast, French writers who have sojourned in this country of late—and quite a lot of them have been over here doing propagandist work of a more or less subtle nature—are commencing to emphasize our good points and recount how nice we are.

One of these personages tells his fellow countrymen that "among the traits I observed in Americans that struck me most favorably, was their generosity," and another, Francois de Croisset, a dramatist, declares that "when Americans learn the art of doing nothing, they will become a perfect people."

This is all very nice, and a self flattering interpretation of the change of tone of the French press would be an assumption that as far as the Grecs journalists have come to know us better, they have learned to understand and appreciate us more. But it will be dangerous and semi-deceptive, and rather juvenile to succumb to any such imagining as that.

The French are an extremely practical people underneath their carefully cultivated and regulated emotionalism, and if for the moment their spokesmen are flattering instead of insulting us, if they have quit calling us "Shylocks," and are discussing about our generosity, they are doing so with a purpose. What that purpose may be is naturally more or less a matter for speculation at present. But perhaps it is a good general guess that the French journalists who have traveled here have learned that the hard names they and their countrymen have been hurling at us, have accomplished nothing for them, but on the contrary have created irritation, dislike and suspicion which may be bad for France later. There seems to be a sudden recollection in Paris of the old saying that you can catch more flies with molasses than with vinegar.

LITTLE GIRL

She's only 6, but she wonders about life quite a bit. She wonders how water can go UP in pipes, she wonders what makes automobiles go... Once she asked her father whether the days would ever come to end—whether there would ever be a time when there wouldn't be any days at all... but just nothing at all... Her father couldn't answer the question. He said, "Perhaps." And she seemed to be satisfied with his ignorance.

She's fond of dolls, but she likes dogs better. She likes to drive nails into boards and to saw them across. She thinks boys have more fun than girls... Nobody ever told her that. It's her own idea... She can read, but she'd rather pile up blocks... She has fun.

Sometimes she sits quietly by herself and then asks an odd question... You ask her why she asked THAT particular question and she replies: "Oh I was just thinking, I guess..." She doesn't know why she asks them.

She can't stand physical pain very well. She gets very white if she is a bad fall and wants to go to bed and have bread and milk. But she doesn't like puppies and kittens to be hurt, either... She listened one day to the story of an Irish wolfhound that killed a cat and then said: "I don't want to hear about that—because I like kittens." She can turn handsprings quite well, and is very proud of it. She'll show you if you ask her... But she can't turn a cartwheel, and she's tried and tried and tried.

That little girl can touch the tip of her nose with her tongue, but she's sort of ashamed of it. On the other hand she can wiggle her ears and will do that for anybody... Sometimes she whines when things go wrong and her parents wish she wouldn't. They tell her they don't want a whiny tattletale in the house... She believes there's a Santa Claus and she is sure an Easter Bunny leaves candy eggs in the front yard once a year... She thinks she knows how to dance the sailor's horn-pipe and she dances by herself if she's alone in a room and the radio's turned on; but if you come in, she stops... She doesn't always say thank you when people give her things, but after they've gone she says she "just loves" them.

She's just a regular little girl getting a day older every day... Sometimes she seems older than her years and sometimes she seems a mere baby. What on earth will become of her? What will she be like when she grows up?... But doesn't somebody wonder that may about nearly every little girl that's just six years old?

Answers to questions on information and fact can be obtained by writing to Central Press Bureau, 1435 East Twelfth street, Cleveland, O., and enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. No answers will be given to marital, medical or legal questions, nor will the estimated value of old coins be given.

What causes icebergs? Are they more numerous in the south or north polar regions?

Icebergs are sections of glaciers which have become detached from the main body of glacial ice after its front, or snout, has reached a sea or lake. In the north polar region Greenland is pre-eminent for the number and the size of the bergs which drift into Atlantic waters. The Greenland bergs are occasionally of great size. Large icebergs tower from 100 to 250 feet above the ocean, which makes their entire height from 700 feet to about 1,600 feet, as about one-seventh is above water. It is in the south polar regions, however, that icebergs are found in the greatest numbers, and of the maximum size. Antarctica, with its more than 10,000 miles of icy coasts, does not, as far as is known, present 100 consecutive miles of shore free from discharging glaciers. The Antarctic icebergs are almost always tabular, flat-topped, with perpendicular sides, which often rise 200 feet or more above the water. Their size is more astounding than their height. One berg was reported to be more than 30 miles in length and of unknown breadth. Two different ships reported another berg, which was more than 40 miles in length, and which must have had more than 1,000 miles of surface area. Most of these bergs drift north and melt between latitude 40 and 50 degrees south.

Talkies

What was the first successful talking picture and who was the star?

"The Jazz Singer," starring Al Jolson, is said to have been the first successful talking picture. It was produced in 1927.

Football

Did the football team of the University of Wisconsin defeat Notre Dame at any time within the last three years?

The University of Wisconsin defeated Notre Dame by a score of 22-0 in 1928.

Warmth in Color

Which color is warmer in winter, white or black?

Because black absorbs and retains heat more readily than white, it is the warmer of the two colors. Squares of white and black cloth placed upon the snow on a sunny winter day will prove the point, the snow beneath the black melting much more rapidly.

Envys

Who are the American ambassadors to the following countries and what are their addresses: France, Walter E. Edge; Austria, Russia, England, Germany, Spain, France, Austria and Rumania?

There is no U. S. ambassador to Russia inasmuch as the United States refuses to recognize the present Soviet regime. The U. S. Ambassador to England, Charles Dawes, Germany, Frederick M. Sackett; Spain, Irwin B. Laughlin; Albert H. Washburn; Rumania, Charles S. Wilson. The proper address of any one of these ambassadors is in care of the American embassies in the capital cities of the various countries.

Impeachment

Was a president of the United States ever impeached? If so, for what reason?

Andrew Johnson, seventeenth president of the United States, was impeached by the House of Representatives for having removed without the consent of the Senate E. M. Stanton, secretary of war, and on other charges including corrupt use of the veto power, interference at elections and high crimes and misdemeanors. He was tried by the U. S. Senate, March 30, May 26, 1868, which voted 35 for conviction, 19 for acquittal; but as two-thirds vote was necessary for conviction, the verdict was acquittal.

NEW YORK.—Gangland's victims have been addressing lewd letters to the District Attorney of New York asking him if he can't do something to rescue them from the toils of the racketeers.

The District Attorney apparently had to wait for these communications before realizing just how serious the situation is. He is "amazed" that "business" in New York are conducted, not as the proprietors, as free agents would conduct them but as they are constrained to conduct them by outsiders.

And when he says "outsiders" the District Attorney means gangsters and racketeers.

The amazing thing about this amazing situation is the "amazement" of the District Attorney. A reign of terror brought to perfection by the Overlords of Gangland

BRITISH EXPLANATION OF U. S. EXPORT TRADE MAY STIR RUMPS

WASHINGTON.—David Lloyd George, England's former prime minister, and his fellow Liberal, Lord Lothian, drafted what London cables describe as a "memorandum" telling Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald's government (or "administration," as we say here) what the Liberals WOULD do.

"She practically pays for the goods she sells," said the two eminent Britons, of this country.

Some of our own domestic critics of the American tariff system have been trying for quite awhile to express substantially the same idea but none has succeeded in doing it quite so pithily. With all due respect to Lord Lothian, it must have been ex-Premier Lloyd George who hit on the exact, compact little sentence employed. He always did have a positive genius for the epigrammatic.

"She practically pays for the goods she sells," said the two eminent Britons, of this country.

But the rub of the "memo," from the standpoint of American interest, is to be found in the warning it contained that Under no circumstances must free trade be sacrificed, for England essentially is a manufacturing country, dependent for her welfare on foreign markets for her industrial products, and free trade, in turn, is absolutely essential to a big national export business.

The former British prime minister and his lordship of Lothian obviously intend to say that an exporter's production costs must be low to permit him to underbid rival countries exporters in foreign trade fields.

Just as obviously the ex-premier and his lordship anticipated a reminder from British tariffites that American manufacturers, despite their high production costs, have been getting a lot of customers away from English manufacturers in a great many parts of the world for without waiting for any reminder, they add:

"Statistics show that the United States can only secure an export trade at all, at her present costs of production, as she lends abroad.

"She practically pays for the goods she sells."

This is a new way of looking at it, anyway.

It is true, too, that we do lend barrels of money.

Possibly the answer to the puzzle is concealed somewhere in the statistics referred to by ex-Premier Lloyd George and Lord Lothian—statistics which may differ from our own commerce department's trade statistics.

Tariff revisionists are digging in to them for all they are worth now before congress gets under way.

Hashed Brown Leftover Potatoes

Cabbage and Apple Salad

Sweet Cider Cake Tea

What family does not enjoy an occasional meal of such old-fashioned viands as cold roast meat and hashed brown potatoes made from cold boiled leftover potatoes?

File the biscuit recipe away for future use. You will need it.

Today's Recipes

Every Ready Biscuit Dough—One

quart milk, one cup sugar, one cup melted fat, one cup mashed potato, one-half cup water in which dissolve one cake yeast, two teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon soda, one tablespoon salt, flour. Scald, then cool milk. To lukewarm milk add all ingredients and flour enough to make a soft sponge. Let this stand in a warm place until very light, then add flour to make a stiff dough, kneading well. Place in a container and set in refrigerator or any place cool enough to prevent fermentation, but not cold enough to destroy action of yeast. Is at its best, from one to ten days.

When wanted, shape into rolls, coffee cake or anything made of bread dough. Let stand about three hours. Bake.

Sweet Cider Cake—One cup sugar, one-third cup butter, three-fourths cup sweet cider, one egg (beaten), one-fourth teaspoon each cinnamon, nutmeg, cloves, one-fourth teaspoon salt, two cups

flour, one-half teaspoon baking

Fundamental football carried Notre Dame to a 7 to 6 victory over the Army in what is commonly known as a sea of mud at Soldier's Field in Chicago Saturday.

Many people are wont to class Notre Dame as the perfect exponent of "modern" football. Nothing could be farther from the truth. This belief is an erroneous as the popular conception of the Rockne men as a gang of Irishmen.

Marchie Schwartz's fifty-four-yard touchdown jaunt was on a simple off-tackle play. This same play had been attempted time after time previously but had failed to click. Then all of a sudden the play was executed perfectly. Every player supposed to be blocked out was taken out according to theory. Not an Army player laid a finger on Marchie. He could have been carrying an egg down the field on a spoon for all it mattered.

Rockne's system, as demonstrated against the Army, the sloppy gridiron notwithstanding, is built around the theory of absolute perfection in fundamentals. The Ramblers may have complicated plays but they are seldom used except in a great emergency.

In Indiana they play sound football. Notre Dame played simple, straight football against the Army. Rockne's idea is that each player must master all fundamentals. Few teams are able to match with equal thoroughness the individual perfection of his players. No wonder they refer to Notre Dame teams as machines, each component part functioning perfectly.

Under ordinary circumstances on a dry field, Notre Dame is probably at least three touchdowns better than the Army. It was fortunate for the Army the field was wet. The Army this season has been credited with a strong line and the forward wall of the soldier boys Saturday covered itself with glory. Army had no offense to speak of but its line, outweighing that of Notre Dame a few pounds per man, did great work. Even so the Army was slightly outplayed on the rush line.

On a dry field it would have been a football classic. As it was two undefeated football elevens staged a very ordinary contest, hardly worth the trouble going to see, and certainly not worth standing around for three hours in a cold, drizzling rain to watch as some 11,000 spectators did.

LEAGUE OFFICIALS TO PREPARE COURT SCHEDULE TUESDAY

The 1931-32 basketball schedule for the Miami Valley League will be drawn up at the annual fall dinner-meeting of representatives of the six league schools Tuesday night at 6:30 o'clock at the Dayton Y. M. C. A.

Coach Walter C. Wilson, O. B. Bogart, faculty manager of athletics, and B. F. Crandall will represent Xenia Central High at the league session.

Piqua Central High, which retained the M. V. L. football title this fall without the loss of a game will be formally awarded the league trophy in recognition of its accomplishment.

Advisability of having two officials for all league basketball games is also expected to be considered and it is possible the league coaches may definitely decide among themselves the personnel of the annual first and second all league football teams for 1930.

COMMUNITY CHEST PASSES HALF-WAY MARK HERE MONDAY

Xenia's third annual Community Fund drive passed the halfway mark Monday.

Cash contributions and pledges reported by chest collectors Monday totalled $1,041.25, raising the total amount subscribed so far to the fund to $5,079.

The campaign quota is $10,000 and in the few days remaining to fund workers it will be necessary to procure $4,921 if the goal set at the start of the drive is to be reached.

Chest leaders held a meeting at City Hall Monday night to discuss ways and means of obtaining the additional $5,000 and workers are grimly determined to canvass the city with a fine tooth comb in quest of contributions.

The Xenia National Bank, Huston-Bickell Hardware Store and the Aldine Publishing Co. have been added to the list of 100 percent contributors to the fund in the business district of the city, it was announced at chest headquarters Tuesday.

AUTOIST FINED AND SENTENCED TO JAIL

Adjudged guilty of operating an auto while intoxicated following a hearing in Municipal Court Monday, Bert Hobart Turner, 33, colored, 36 Joe St., Dayton, was fined $100 and costs, sentenced to thirty day in jail and his right to drive an auto was forfeited for six months by Judge E. Dawson Smith. Turner's auto collided with the traffic post at Main and Detroit Sts., Sunday night and Peter Shagin, motorcycle policeman, arrested him. James Rogers, 17, colored, 38 Joe St., an occupant of Turner's car, was released from custody.

MERCHANTS ADOPT CHRISTMAS TREE DECORATIONS THIS YEAR

Christmas will again come to Xenia early this year.

Following a plan inaugurated a few years ago by the Xenia Retail Merchants' Association and which will again be followed this year, downtown Xenia will be transformed into a veritable fairy land next Monday or Tuesday night.

Christmas trees trimmed with varied colored lights will once more be used as the street decorations, installed in front of a majority of stores in the business section.

The wires will be strung next Monday and the trees will be lighted simultaneously Monday night if possible.

This decision was reached at the monthly dinner-meeting of the association Monday night at The Iron Lantern Cafe, the merchants also approving a plan to have their stores remain open in the evenings December 22, 23 and 24, the three nights preceding Christmas.

The business men also passed a resolution authorizing a contribution of $25 to be made to Xenia's current Community Fund campaign, the amount to be subscribed being the same as was donated last year.

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

FAMED by Phil

Fundamental football carried Notre Dame to a 7 to 6 victory over the Army in what is commonly known as a sea of mud at Soldier's Field in Chicago Saturday.

Many people are wont to class Notre Dame as the perfect exponent of "modern" football. Nothing could be farther from the truth. This belief is as erroneous as the popular conception of the Rockne men as a gang of Irishmen.

Marchie Schwartz's fifty-four-yard touchdown jaunt was on a simple off-tackle play. This same play had been attempted time after time previously but had failed to click. Then all of a sudden the play was executed perfectly. Every player supposed to be blocked out was taken out according to theory. Not an Army player laid a finger on Marchie. He could have been carrying an egg down the field on a spoon for all it mattered.

Rockne's system, as demonstrated against the Army, the sloppy gridiron notwithstanding, is built around the theory of absolute perfection in fundamentals. The Ramblers may have complicated plays but they are seldom used except in a great emergency.

In Indiana they play sound football. Notre Dame played simple, straight football against the Army. Rockne's idea is that each player must master all fundamentals. Few teams are able to match with equal thoroughness the individual perfection of his players. No wonder they refer to Notre Dame teams as machines, each component part functioning perfectly.

Under ordinary circumstances on a dry field, Notre Dame is probably at least three touchdowns better than the Army. It was fortunate for the Army the field was wet. The Army this season has been credited with a strong line and the forward wall of the soldier boys Saturday covered itself with glory. Army had no offense to speak of but its line, outweighing that of Notre Dame a few pounds per man, did great work. Even so the Army was slightly outplayed on the rush line.

On a dry field it would have been a football classic. As it was two great undefeated football elevens staged a very ordinary contest, hardly worth the trouble going to see, and certainly not worth standing around for three hours in a cold, drizzling rain to watch as some 110,000 spectators did.

LEAGUE OFFICIALS TO PREPARE COURT SCHEDULE TUESDAY

There is a revival of earlier agitation for a charity, post-season football game between Wilberforce University and Wittenberg College. The suggestion has apparently struck the fancy of business men of Springfield, who are getting behind the movement. The game would be played at Springfield either December 6 or December 13, the only fly in the ointment being the possibility of conflict with basketball practice at Wittenberg. A local grid fan first conceived the idea of a Wilberforce-Wittenberg contest for the benefit of an employed, and if the game should materialize, we would be willing to make a small wager in keeping with our limited means upon Wilberforce.

BOWLING

With Bill Smith recording scores of 226, 202 and 210 for a 638 series, the Schmidt Oil Co. won the odd game in three from the last-place Lang Chevrolet Co. in a Recreation League bowling match Monday night. The cellar dwellers took the first game by a margin of four pins, 922 to 918. L. McCoy led Langs with 567 and his 246 score explained why Langs won the first game. Box score:

TWO PRISONERS WHO ESCAPED ARE SOUGHT

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 2.—Local police today were asked by Sheriff Way, of Marietta, to search here for two of the four men who escaped recently from the state reformatory at Lisbon.

One of the four has been arrested at Parkersburg, W. Va., and a second is being detained at Marietta, police said. The name of the missing two were given as Oke Fouse, 29, and George, alias Ray, Groves.

Local police went to an apartment where the two were supposed to be hiding, but did not find them.

LEADER CHOSEN

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 2.—State Senator D. H. DeArmond, of Hamilton, today was chosen Democratic senate floor leader at the caucus of the fourteen Democratic members of the state senate.

BOBBY JONES

His Life in Pictures

1924—Jones Wins First National Amateur Crown.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fourth picture series telling of the life story of Bobby Jones, re-tired golf king.

Bobby Jones was battering his teer crown. At Merion, Bobby defeated George Von Elm in the finals. His joy at winning the amateur crown was tempered, however, by his loss of the open championship which he had won the year before. In the open, Bobby was defeated in the finals by Cyril Walker.

MERCHANTS ADOPT CHRISTMAS TREE DECORATIONS THIS YEAR

Christmas will again come to varied colored lights will once more be used as the street decorations, installed in front of a majority of stores in the business section.

The wires will be strung next Monday and the trees will be lighted simultaneously Monday night if possible.

This decision was reached at the monthly dinner-meeting of the association Monday night at The Iron Lantern Cafeteria, the merchants also approving a plan to have their stores remain open in the evenings December 22, 23 and 24, the three nights preceding Christmas.

The business men also passed a resolution authorizing a contribution of $25 to be made to Xenia's current Community Fund campaign, the amount to be subscribed being the same as was donated last year.

FAMILY DESERTERS FLAYED BY JUDGE

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 2.—Men who desert their families are guilty of a crime and should be given a penalty equal to that for robbery, Criminal Court Judge John R. King said today.

When a man intentionally deserts his family, said King, he ranks himself in the same class with the ordinary criminal and should be dealt with accordingly.

Warden P. E. Thomas previously had recommended to the Ohio Bar Association that the three-to-five year penalty for non-support be changed, setting the maximum penalty at fifty years.

ANTIOCH LOSES

University of Cincinnati's fencing team defeated Antioch College fencers Saturday by a score of 7 to 6, marking the first fencing match of the season for both schools. Cincinnati was represented by Heymering, Graffe, Lange, Blossey and Hixson. Antioch fencers included Trova, Johnson and Ryder. Both teams will compete in a tournament with various other Ohio colleges at a later date this season.

Chest leaders held a meeting at City Hall Monday night to discuss ways and means of obtaining the additional $5,000 and workers are grimly determined to canvass the city with a fine tooth comb in quest of contributions.

The Xenia National Bank, Huston-Bickett Hardware Store and Aldine Publishing Co. have been added to the list of 100 per cent contributors to the fund in the business district of the city, it was announced at chest headquarters Tuesday.

AUTOIST FINED AND SENTENCED TO JAIL

Adjudged guilty of operating an auto while intoxicated following a hearing in Municipal Court Monday, Bert Hobart Turner, 33, colored, 36 Joe St., Dayton, was fined $100 and costs, sentenced to thirty days in jail and his right to drive an auto was forfeited for six months by Judge E. Dawson Smith. Turner's auto collided with the traffic post at Main and Detroit Sts., Sunday night and Peter Shag, in motorcycle policeman, arrested him. James Rogers, 17, colored, 38 Joe St., an occupant of Turner's car, was released from custody.

EXAMINE VENIRE TO TRY MURDERER

GEORGETOWN, O., Dec. 2.—Selection of a jury to hear the case of Charles Johnston, 35, on trial in common pleas court here for the murder of his neighbor, Robert Clemens, aged farmer, was expected to be completed today. Only two jurors were tentatively seated yesterday when the case opened.

Thirty-five veniremen were examined, the majority being excused because they objected to capital punishment when the prosecution indicated that the death penalty would be asked for Johnston.

One of those called for jury duty was the defendant's father, John Johnston. He was excused when his identity was made known.

N. Y. STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—Monday's closing rally was carried into the first period today and with few exceptions stocks sold higher in the early trading. Mack Trucks displayed some nervousness while awaiting the result of the directors' dividend action, and dropped off more than 3 points to 41 1/4.

The market as a whole again marked time while awaiting the president's message to congress. It was the hope and expectation of the financial district that methods would be suggested by Mr. Hoover for a more speedy and effective ending of the period of depression.

WOMAN M. P. LIKES POLITICS

Miss Agnes MacPhail

Miss Agnes C. MacPhail, the only woman member of parliament in the Dominion of Canada and the only woman ever to have served in parliament, was always interested in the affairs of the country and so naturally drifted into active politics, she declares. She used no political tricks in her campaign, she is interested in the problems of the farmers, and her hobby is prison reform. She was at one time an ardent dry and has no use for liquor, but believes the United States will have to work out a program of moderation in its liquor fight.

JUNIOR CHEST FUND DRIVE IS RESUMED

The Junior Community Chest began its campaign again Monday after a vacation of a few days due to the Thanksgiving holidays. Several rooms among the schools have reported 100 per cent contributions but the Junior Chest goal has not been reached and the drive will continue for a few days this week.

A final report Monday showed that 1,451 students out of 2,042 enrolled in the Xenia public schools have given a total of about $65.

Y. M. C. A. CLOSED; FUND GIVEN CHEST

MANSFIELD, O., Dec. 2.—The community chest today received the remainder of a $5,000 sum granted the Y. M. C. A. here because the latter institution will be closed until next fall.

The Y. M. C. A. directors said they considered the money could be used to better advantage at this time in other relief work.

Recently a campaign for funds for erection of a new Y. M. C. A. building failed, and the poor condition of the present structure had much to do with the director's decision to close temporarily.

SELECT JURY TO TRY ACCUSED MAN

HAMILTON, O., Dec. 2.—A jury of eight men and four women was seated today in Butler common pleas court to hear the first degree murder trial of Charles King, 39-year-old barber, charged with killing his wife and four of their five children.

Selection of the jury was completed late yesterday, the first day of the sensational case.

County authorities contend that King confessed to them that he turned on gas in his home, locked the house and left his family to suffocate. One of the sons, Charles, Jr., escaped his father's alleged death plot and recovered from the effects of the gas.

The defense attorneys have announced that they will show that King was aboard a train enroute to Lima, O., when the wholesale murder occurred.

Everyone From Santa To Claudette Colbert On Air

ELLIOTT NUGENT, playwright and actor and James G. Thurber, author and humorist, are among the dozen stars who will appear on the Ohio State Day program to be broadcast over a special network, including WLW, Cincinnati, Wednesday from 10:30 to 11:30 p.m. Ohio State alumni of Xenia and Greene County will "listen in" on the program in connection with a dinner meeting at Christ Church Parish House.

The program will be picked up from New York, Cincinnati and Columbus and all persons taking part are alumni except those who are now attending the school.

Screen Star On Air.

Claudette Colbert, well known stage and screen star, who has recently returned from a world tour, will broadcast over the CBS network Tuesday evening from 10:30 to 11 o'clock. She will be guest artist on the Paramount-Publix Radio Playhouse Hour, coming through station WKRC, Cincinnati.

Bull Fighter Speaks.

Radio audiences will hear about another phase of the sporting world Wednesday evening when Sidney Franklin, America's only bull fighter, will be interviewed by Grantland Rice, sports writer. The program will be heard over WSAI, Cincinnati, at 10:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Catt To Talk.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, veteran suffragette and women's leader, will speak over an NBC network Wednesday afternoon at 3:45 o'clock. Her subject will be "The Place of Women in Public Life Today." It will not be possible to hear the program through any of the Cincinnati stations.

SANTA CLAUS

New Program Starts.

A series of bi-weekly broadcasts titled "Rodeoheaver Sings" will be inaugurated Wednesday evening by Homer Rodeoheaver, who for twenty years was song leader for Billy Sunday. The programs will be presented each Wednesday and Saturday evening from 8 to 8:15 o'clock over an NBC network.

Santa Claus Is Here!

Here's something for the kiddies! Santa Claus is scheduled to make his appearance at WLW, Cincinnati from now until Christmas. His and will be on the air every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evening from now until Christmas. His program will last for fifteen minutes—from 6 until 6:15 o'clock. Letters have been awaiting Santa Claus at WLW since October 25 and now the stack of mail is so high old Santa is afraid he will not have enough time to finish making his toys.

DRAMATIC CLUB TO MAKE FAREWELL BOW

The retiring dramatic club of Wilberforce University is to make its farewell bow on Monday night, December 8, with the presentation of a "Parisian Review."

The performance will include two one-act plays, "So You're Going to Paris" and "Miss Civilization." The leading feminine role in the latter production will be taken by Miss Clementine Richardson, recently elected "Miss Wilberforce" by popular student vote.

Music will be furnished by a symphonic jazz band under the supervision of Miss Edwards and there will be numbers by a chorus of fifteen girls and an equal number of young men.

JUNIOR CHEST FUND DRIVE IS RESUMED

The Junior Community Chest began its campaign again Monday after a vacation of a few days due to the Thanksgiving holidays. Several rooms among the schools have reported 100 per cent contributions but the Junior Chest goal has not been reached and the drive will continue for a few days this week.

A final report Monday showed that 1,451 students out of 2,042 enrolled in the Xenia public schools have given a total of about $65.

Y. M. C. A. CLOSED; FUND GIVEN CHEST

MANSFIELD, O., Dec. 2.—The community chest today received the remainder of a $5,000 sum granted the Y. M. C. A. here because the latter institution will be closed until next fall.

The Y. M. C. A. directors said they considered the money could be used to better advantage at this time in other relief work. Recently a campaign for funds for erection of a new Y. M. C. A. building failed, and the poor condition of the present structure had much to do with the director's decision to close temporarily.

"RHEUMATISM OF THE GEARS!"

RIGHT now summer gear grease should be changed. If you leave it in your car—no matter how good and fresh it is—you're courting expensive car repairs! Remember that summer grease isn't made for cold weather!

The first freezing day turns it into a sticky, heavy mass that cripples gears. Sooner or later your car develops "rheumatism of the gears." Hard shifting and noisy, clashing gears are the symptoms of this disease that costs motorists $100,000,000 a year and is responsible for 40 per cent of all major repair bills.

Switch to WHIZ GEAR LUBRICANT! Free Flushing Days

Whiz Winter Grade Gear Lubricant saves your gears and gives more power to your car. It's the richest and purest gear lubricant made, it's good for 5,000 miles, and even at 30 below zero it flows efficiently to lubricate the gears!

MINISTERS DONATE TO CHEST; ENDORSE CAMPAIGN IN XENIA

Members of the Xenia Ministerial Association voted to give $25 to the Community Chest at a meeting Monday morning. Dr. H. B. McElree, member of the Chest executive committee, reported the progress of chest workers after which members decided to make their contribution.

In addition the association commanded the Chest and those in charge. The ministers endorsed the Chest as a great piece of social constructive work in the city and not as a "dole" organization for the needy but it was pointed out that the work embraced by the Community Chest is larger than the paying of an immediate sum to a family for food and clothes. A committee was appointed to meet the Chest executive committee Tuesday evening to bring about a closer cooperation between the Chest and the churches.

The Rev. W. N. Shank, president, presided at the meeting. Reports from the Standard Training School were heard and members passed a resolution of thanks to the Gazette for its co-operation in publicity of the school. It was also decided at the meeting that the association will join in a county conference on evangelism to be held for ministers and laymen at the United Brethren Church Tuesday, December 16, afternoon and evening.

It was also decided to hold a week of prayer with two union services Sunday, January 4 and January 11. It was announced that the quintet of churches will meet at the

MINISTERS DONATE TO CHEST; ENDORSE CAMPAIGN IN XENIA

Members of the Xenia Ministerial Association voted to give $25 to the Community Chest at a meeting Monday morning. Dr. H. B. McElree, member of the Chest executive committee, reported the progress of chest workers after which members decided to make their contribution.

In addition the association commanded the Chest and those in charge. The ministers endorsed the Chest as a great piece of social constructive work in the city and not as a "doe" organization for the needy but it was pointed out that the work embraced by the Community Chest is larger than the paying of an immediate sum to a family for food and clothes. A committee was appointed to meet the Chest executive committee Tuesday evening to bring about a closer cooperation between the Chest and the churches.

The Rev. W. N. Shank, president, presided at the meeting. Reports from the Standard Training School were heard and members passed a resolution of thanks to the Gazette for its co-operation in publicity of the school. It was also decided at the meeting that the association will join in a county conference on evangelism to be held at the United Brethren Church Tuesday, December 16, afternoon and evening.

It was also decided to hold a week of prayer with two union services Sunday, January 4 and January 11. It was announced that the quintet of churches will meet at the First Reformed Church next Sunday evening with the sermon to be delivered by Rev. A. H. Beardsley, pastor of Trinity M. E. Church.

The Rev. Thomas O'Neill, a lawyer of Topeka, Kan., national commander of the American Legion, has accepted an invitation to be guest of honor at the second annual community banquet to be sponsored by Joseph Foody Post, No. 95, American Legion, February 5, 1931, according to announcement made Monday. Elaborate plans for the banquet are being arranged. The affair will probably be held at the Masonic Temple.

"Most rigid economy is therefore necessary," he said, "to avoid increase in taxes."

Reversing the usual order of things, Hollywood's professional athletes are complaining about the invasion of amateurs.

One of the prominent movie stunt men charges that local aquatic stars are providing cut-rate thrills for film producers.

The ordinary water scenes, for which stunt men receive $25 a day, are being done by amateurs for $10 a day, he declares.

Another charge is that an amateur recently did a ninety-foot dive for $75, a stunt which would bring $250 to a professional. Most of "Private Secretary" is only one of the business romances following the wake of First National's successful film, "The Office Wife."

Casting is about finished for John Gilbert's new film, "A Gentleman's Fate." John Miljan and George Marion are among the last names to be added.

A poll of exhibitors has resulted in the postponement of "Saint Johnson," which Universal had planned to make as one of the important film on this year's program. The public, so the exhibitors say, is growing cool toward Westerns.

Other studios figure differently as "Cimarron" and "Fighting Caravans" are listed among the specials of RKO and Paramount. In all likelihood "Saint Johnson" will be made next year, according to officials at Universal.

The ordinary water scenes, for, illustrates that a single good picture which stunt men receive $25 a day can rejuvenate an actor's career. A series of indifferent roles had threatened to kill this actor's popularity. Then came "The Dawn Patrol," in which Hamilton gave an authoritative performance. He has been deluged with offers ever since and now is appearing in "The Command Performances" for James Cruze.

When he finishes there Fox has signed him for one of the masculine leads in "Three Girls Lost." The rest of the cast for this film remains to be chosen. Sidney Lanfield will direct.

JORETTA A LOVE STORY

By EDNA ROBB WEBSTER Author of "DAD'S GIRL" etc.

READ THIS FIRST: Joretta Dowling is the only daughter of a wealthy merchant of the west, whose socially ambitious mother has influenced her to become engaged to Norman Williams, wealthy shipbuilder, from whom her vain and pompous father has just bought a palatial yacht, with which he makes mysterious trips to a southern port, commanding his crew to stay aboard until his return. Joretta meets the chief engineer of the yacht, Jim Norton, who is handsome and cultured and attracts her from the first. The wedding is planned for the autumn, but as Norman's unpleasantness increases, Joretta resents him. He rudely shows his jealousy of Vernon La Cossit, a guest from New York who writes musical revues. She gives a theater party at a movie premiere and they go to a night club afterward. She has asked Jim to show her sometime all about the machinery of the yacht, feigning interest in engines but more interested in him. She goes to the yacht to see Jim as they had planned. She learns that Jim is a mechanical genius descended from a Spanish caballero and an English gentleman, and he confides to her that he is inventing a carburetor for gas engines.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER 15

While his daughter was pouring tea for the crew on his yacht, Allan Dowling was concerned with a vastly different matter. He had told his secretary that he was "out" to anyone who called, then locked the door of his private office and crossed the room to a large safe. Instantly, his manner had changed, like a small boy trudging dejectedly at work and then vaulting fences on his way to a swimming hole. His face had an eager expression; he walked across the room with more elasticity and his fingers twirled the combination impatiently. The heavy outer door swung open. From a bunch of keys he produced one to unlock the inner one; and then, from his leather coat pocket he took a leather key case and fitted its one small key into the lock of a metal drawer.

Pulling it out, he carried it over to his desk and sat down with the elaborate satisfaction of a miser about to recount his hoard. In the box were various papers, crisply new and white; and in the startling contrast, one very old and yellowed roll of heavy paper with frayed edges. He took this up carefully, unrolled it and spread it on the desk. With his pencil poised above it and flattening the edges with his fingers, he studied the faded lines and figures.

It was evidently a map, and of a portion of Mexican territory, for the names were all Spanish. Dowling scowled anxiously over the places where letters were entirely obliterated or badly faded.

"Can't waste another trip like the last one," he muttered to himself. "Time's too precious and it's going to cost twice as much as I figured from the first indications, to say nothing of what might happen yet."

He sighed heavily and swung back in his swivel chair to consider. Then he reached for the telephone and called a number that was not listed in the directory—and never would be.

Mrs. Dowling also was busy, with plans for Joretta's wedding. Lists—lists—notes—suggestions—samples—plans. This was her crowning service to her daughter—probably the last time she could plan and execute any event of her life. No expense would be spared. She estimated thirty to forty thousand besides the gifts and trousseau. A church wedding, of course, with a reception at home. It was a labor of love and pride for her. No doubt, if she could have seen her daughter that afternoon in the dining salon of the Montezuma, demurely pouring tea for Uncle Charley, Jim and Ben, joining in their nondescript repartee and enjoying it all immensely, she would have been grieved to distraction. Jetty frequently did just such queer and unconventional things that shocked her mother's strained ideal of social superiority. In that regard, she was her father's own daughter; and between their intermittent displays of vulgar tastes in companionship, she suffered not a little chagrin.

To her remonstrances—even when she was only a child and formed an attachment for some impossible child in their then not too restricted neighborhood—Joretta would always demand, with her blue eyes widened in solemn bewilderment:

"But why can't I play with Joey? He's nice. He gave me his green age—the bestest he had." Or later at school, "But mummy, Katie's all right. She's great fun—and just a girl like me. Aren't we all just people?"

Whereupon, Anne Dowling would further elaborate upon her creed of select society—which was as warped as anybody's creeds—and ladies and "her future," with great patience and vague misgivings. That was why she planned Joretta's marriage to Norman with such happy satisfaction. It represented the climax of all she aimed for Joretta.

Driving home in the golden glamor of sunset, with the hills reflecting its splendor on their summits and casting long grey shadows at their feet, Joretta experienced an exhilaration she had seldom known before. Everywhere she looked, she saw Jim's face. Her memory printed his smile, with his head thrown back and his eyes looking at her, on the highway before her, on the sky, on the mountainsides. Something of his presence seemed to go with her in the radiance that was all about her.

She was glad when she encountered no one on reaching home, and went directly to her own rooms. Softly, she opened the door behind her. Almost as if she feared to awaken herself by a harsh sound. She wanted to move forever in the pleasant atmosphere that her talk with Jim had created for her. Jim. She liked that name. So straightforward and forceful. Like him.

Into the bath to wash her hands. Dipping them into the water spilled into the orchid porcelain flower-petal basin into the curved head of a silver swan. But she only saw Jim's face.

It was when she absently took a monogrammed linen towel from the tiled rod, she was reminded that she had no right to hold any man's face in her memory for long, save Norman's. Only that morning her mother had started the discussion of monogramming her linens; dozens of towels, sheets, table linens.

She reflected upon the irony of convention. Because she was marrying a man to whom the cost of linens, more or less, was nothing, her mother insisted upon providing her with a great plethora; while if she were marrying a man—well, like Jim, for instance—she would give no consideration to whether she had linens or not, much less monogrammed.

Whatever was the matter with her, anyway, she thought, troubled. Just because Jim was attractive, ambitious, clever and interesting, she must not let her imagination run riot. Just the same, she wished she might do something to help him. He was playing such a lone hand, against such odds. Now, a man like Norman seemed to hold all the aces.

Still—perhaps not. Jim had many things that Norman never could get—and what did Norman have that Jim probably would not get? Only—herself. And then she flushed guiltily even to herself. Just the same, Jim didn't look at her that queer way, for nothing. She had attracted him just as he had her.

Well, idiot, there was nothing to do about it. That was that! She smiled oddly to herself, conscious of having repeated Jim's very words. She was engaged to marry Norman very soon, and even if she weren't for her to even remotely consider a man like Jim would break her mother's heart. Impatient with herself, she stripped off the green sport suit and began to dress for dinner.

Day flew as swift as the weaver's shuttle. And in the same way did they weave to and fro, fashioning a pattern of intricate design and vivid hues.

The next yacht party was aboard the Williams craft, "Wanderer," so Joretta did not see Jim again for more than two weeks. She might have seen him sooner, but she purposely avoided him.

Twice, she was at the yacht club

DISTRESSING cold in chest or throat—that so often leads to something serious—generally responds to good old Musterole with the first application. Should be more effective if used once every hour for five hours.

This famous blend of oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other helpful ingredients brings relief naturally. Musterole gets action because it is a scientific "counter-irritant"—not just a salve—penetrates and stimulates blood circulation to draw out infection and pain. Used by millions for 20 years. Recommended by doctors and nurses.

Keep Musterole handy—jars and tubes. To Mothers—Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER 15
While his daughter was pouring tea for the crew on his yacht, Allan Dowling was concerned with a vastly different matter. He had told his secretary that he was "out" to anyone who called, then locked the door of his private office and crossed the room to a large safe. Instantly, his manner had changed, like a small boy trudging dejectedly at work and then vaulting fences on his way to a swimming hole. His face had an eager expression; he walked across the room with more elasticity and his fingers twirled the combination impatiently. The heavy outer door swung open. From a bunch of keys he produced one to unlock the inner one; and then, from his inside coat pocket, he took a leather key case and fitted its one small key into the lock of a metal drawer.

Pulling it out, he carried it over to his desk and sat down with the elaborate satisfaction of a miser about to recount his hoard. In the box were various papers, crisply new and white; and in the startling contrast, one very old and yellowed roll of heavy paper with trayed edges. He took this up carefully, unrolled it and spread it on the desk. With his pencil poised above it and flattening the edges with his fingers, he studied the faded lines and figures.

It was evidently a map, and of a portion of Mexican territory, for the names were all Spanish. Dowling scowled anxiously over the places where letters were entirely obliterated or badly faded.

"Can't waste another trip like the last one," he muttered to himself. "Time's too precious and it's going to cost twice as much as I figured from the first indications, to say nothing of what might happen yet."

He sighed heavily and swung back in his swivel chair to consider. Then he reached for the telephone and called a number that was not listed in the directory—and never would be.

Mrs. Dowling also was busy, with plans for Joretta's wedding. Lists—lists—notes—suggestions—samples—plans. This was her crowning service to her daughter—probably the last time she could plan and execute any event of her life. No expense would be spared. She estimated thirty to forty thousand besides the gifts and trousseau. A church wedding, of course, with a reception at home. It was a labor of love and pride for her. No doubt, if she could have seen her daughter that afternoon in the dining salon of the Montezuma, demurely pouring tea for Uncle Charley, Jim and Ben, joining in their nondescript repartee and enjoying it all immensely, she would have been grieved to distraction. Jetty frequently did just such queer and unconventional things that shocked her mother's strained ideal of social superiority. In that regard, she was her father's own daughter; and between their intermittent displays of vulgar tastes in companionship, she suffered not a little chagrin.

To her remonstrances—even when she was only a child and formed an attachment for some impossible child in their then not too restricted neighborhood—Joretta would always demand, with her blue eyes widened in solemn bewilderment:

"But why can't I play with Joey? He's nice. He gave me his green agate—the bestest he had." Or later at school. "But mumus, Katie's all right. She's great fun and—just a girl like me. Aren't we all just people?"

Whereupon, Anne Dowling would further elaborate upon her creed of select society—which was as warped as anybody's creeds—and ladies and "her future," with great patience and vague misgivings. That was why she planned Joretta's marriage to Norman with such happy satisfaction. It represented the climax of all she aimed for Joretta.

Driving home in the golden glamor of sunset, with the hills reflecting its splendor on their summits and casting long grey shadows at their feet, Joretta experienced an exhilaration she had seldom known before. Everywhere she looked, she saw Jim's face. Her memory printed his smile, with his head thrown back and his eyes looking at her, on the highway before her, on the sky, on the mountainsides. Something of his presence seemed to go with her in the radiance that was all about her.

She was glad when she encountered no one on reaching home, and went directly to her own rooms. Softly, she opened the door behind her. Almost as if she feared to awaken herself by a harsh sound. She wanted to move forever in the pleasant atmosphere that her talk with Jim had created for her. Jim. She liked that name. So straightforward and friendly. Like him.

Into the bath to wash her hands. Dipping them into the water spilled into the orchid porcelain flower basin rimmed with curved head of a silver swan. But she only saw Jim's face.

It was when she absently took a monogrammed linen towel from the tiled rod, she was reminded that she had no right to hold any man's face in her memory for long, save Norman's. Only that morning her mother had started the discussion of monogramming her linens; dozens of towels, sheets, table linen.

She reflected upon the irony of convention. Because she was marrying a man to whom the cost of linens, more or less, was as nothing, her mother insisted upon providing her with a great plethora; while if she were marrying a man—well, like Jim, for instance—she would give no consideration to whether she had linens or not, much less monogrammed.

Whatever was the matter with her, anyway, she thought, troubled. Just because Jim was attractive, ambitious, clever and interesting, she must not let her imagination run riot. Just the same, she wished she might do something to help him. He was playing such a lone hand, against such odds. Now, a man like Norman seemed to hold all the aces.

It she encouraged him by making excuses to talk with him, because it gave her pleasure, she might even cause him to forget the importance of his work, to neglect his own ambition. That would be sheer cruelty. Because she recognized that it could never go beyond an impersonal interest in her part—and for him, that would be a tragedy. Joretta had wisdom in her own right.

So she laughed and danced, motored and sailed through the summer weeks. Several times when she boarded the Montezuma and saw Jim Norton, she deliberately passed him with only a nod and a friendly smile that cost her more of an effort than she dared to admit to herself. If he wondered at her sudden aloofness, after her declaration of interest in his affairs, he gave no sign. He thought, resentfully, that she had only been amused by his story that day. Fool he had been to confide in her. Yet, he couldn't doubt her sincerity. After all, her soul was not her own if she did have everything, he shrewdly guessed.

FARM WOMAN BENEFITED

After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Lickdale, Pa.—"Before I was married, my mother and sister and I did all the farming work on a 64-acre farm for eleven years. I married a farmer and now in addition to my housework and the care of my children I help him with the outside work on our farm. After my last child was born, I began to suffer as many women do. Finally our family doctor told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did and now I am a new woman and I know that good health is better than riches"—Mrs. CLYDE I.
